Breakthroughs in the Pursuit of Peace and Cooperation

May 9, 2013

THIS DOCUMENT MUST BE READ VERY CAREFULLY!

OUR GLOBAL PROJECT IS COMPLEX, INVOLVES SEVERAL GOVERNMENTS, THE MEDIA AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS. WE NEED SEVERAL EXCEPTIONAL PEOPLE. WE NEED THEM AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE.

WE NEED TO HEAR FROM APPLICANTS WITHIN 24 HOURS OF RECEIVING OUR INFORMATION. DELAYS IN RESPONDING TO THE MATERIAL WE SEND MUST BE AVOIDED. BEING HARD TO REACH MUST ALSO BE AVOIDED.

Special Assistant

“The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything save our modes of thinking. Thus we drift towards unparalleled catastrophe.” -Albert Einstein, 1948

Key Project Points

1-There are numerous security and humanitarian challenges in the world today going unresolved. There are terrorists seeking Weapons of Mass Destruction, millions of refugees, chaos in the Middle East and in Africa. There are threats from North Korea. There are nine nuclear armed states. There are many other serious challenges beyond these.

2-It is an absolute fact that there are dictators brutalizing people, terrorists killing people in several countries, rogue regimes supporting terrorist groups and criminals trafficking people, weapons and drugs.

3-It is also a fact that government problem solvers such as foreign policymakers, negotiators and security strategists are for the most part, failing to prevent or resolve most of these challenges.

4-Most government officials are well trained, dedicated, experienced and intelligent. The most fundamental reason that any challenge is not resolved is that the problem solver has not identified what is missing in efforts.

5-The inability to identify what is missing is the result of common human limitations of conscious awareness. This applies to formulating foreign policies, negotiations, developing security strategies and many other tasks. In simple language, if you are not aware of all the factors undermining your ability to solve problems they won't get solved.

While our security and humanitarian challenges are expanding, the capabilities of our problem solvers have not.

6-To remedy this critical conscious awareness shortfall, OIC is promoting the use of innovative programs and services to government and multilateral institution officials worldwide.

The utilization of these resources provided by specialized consulting companies will make it possible for foreign policy makers, negotiators, national security strategists and others to produce unprecedented, major breakthroughs in security and humanitarian challenges. Our organization's main function in this newly developing project is to advocate the use of these programs to officials worldwide.

Through various tasks Special Assistants support our promotion of these "outside the box" programs. The tasks are listed below.

It is critically important that applicants clearly recognize the very high level of danger posed by dysfunctional nuclear armed states and terrorists seeking Weapons of Mass Destruction. Applicants should also realize that the numerous regional conflicts throughout Africa and the Middle East can easily trigger wider conflicts involving allies. In addition, food shortages, refugees, poverty and many other humanitarian issues also exacerbate tensions and terrorism. Desperate people do desperate things.

Currently in this project started last year there are high ranking officials in various governments and in multilateral institutions now such as the UN exploring the use of these breakthrough services with us.

We have been assisted in our advocacy by famous negotiators Senator George Mitchell the Former US Special Envoy for Middle East Peace and Former UN Under-Secretary-General Giandomenico Picco, a super star UN negotiator from the 1980s and 90s and others.

"The answer to helplessness is not so very complicated. A man can do something for peace without having to jump into politics. Each man has inside him a basic decency and goodness. If he listens to it and acts on it, he is giving a great deal of what the world needs most. It takes courage for a man to listen to his goodness and act on it.

Dare we be ourselves? This is the question that counts!"

-Pablo Casals

Typical Intern Tasks

1-Special Assistants make calls and send e-mails to government and multilateral institution officials to explain our work in very basic terms to see if they are willing to discuss it in more depth with the Project Coordinator and then with the Program Experts. Special Assistants based in New York, Washington or other world capitals also meet with officials depending on project needs.

2-Special Assistants post our volunteer positions on university job-sites.

3-Special Assistants do various types of research related to our project. Some research counterterrorism, national security and UN officials. Conflicts and current government policies and events are researched.

4-Special Assistants support our social media platforms.

5-Special Assistants research and develop global media contacts.

6-Special Assistants support the Project Coordinator in tasks related to developing alliances with other organizations and various foreign policy and security experts.

The purpose of our interview

The purpose of our interview is for us to determine if the applicant is suitable for our mission. This means that the applicant has already enthusiastically decided to work with us and will agree to work with us in a professional manner.

Requirements

To be accepted intern-volunteers agree to:

1-Follow directions carefully

2-Respond to calls and e-mails the same day

3-Keep promises consistently

4-Donate a minimum of $75.00 to OIC. The donation goes to OIC's basic operating expenses. This can be paid in two or three payments IF necessary. Payments start on the applicant's start date. Donations to OIC are taxable-deductible for US taxpayers and not refundable.

Do not apply if you are unwilling to become an OIC donor.

Telephone Interviews

Note: The purpose of the interview is also NOT to convince applicants to work with us. We have found that applicants who need convincing are not suitable for our position.

This is an unpaid position. Since 1984 OIC has been a totally, home-based, all volunteer non-profit organization. Thus, no one in OIC is paid.

Note: Listening to our 5 minute audio is required. Click on the following link to find the audio.

Intern-volunteer team members are assigned tasks to fit their personal schedule. The hours can be days, nights and/or weekends. There are no limits to the number of hours one can work. There are also no limits on how long one can work with us.

All intern-volunteers work from their home offices. There is no commuting to an office involved.

We do not send anyone to other cities or other locations. We do not pay for any volunteer expenses. However, there rarely are any expenses.
